- Martin Coats

Topics:

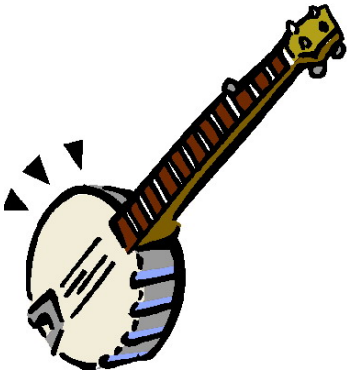

Group Meeting

The latest edition of the "Beer in Hand" club meeting offered a smaller but still enthusiastic group to talk about a wide range of topics. Current member beers being consumed included a bourbon barrel stout and a strong ale brewed with Zymurnauts hops. Martin suggested that we could look into starting up a yeast library that would help extend the value of some of these great beers.

Hop Garden

Speaking of Zymurnauts hops, Tom reports that there are multiple vines growing on trellises after a gentle start, as well as some creepers on the ground. He also noted that there are 4-5' tall weeds mixed in with the hops, which gives everyone something useful to do when we (eventually) get a chance!

Music Alert!

We also found out that Sean's bluegrass band, "Rock Creek Revival", will be performing at Harpers Ferry Brewing on Saturday, August 29 (time TBD). The view from the top of a bluff is great, the beer is supposed to be good, and you get excellent music – What a package!

Beer Swap

Half a dozen Zymurnauts braved the DC summer heat to enjoy a (socially distanced) beer swap in Matt's back yard on July 19. Fueled by Kevin's smoked brats and good beer, we enjoyed the opportunity to spend time with friends. All agreed that it would be worth doing again!
